General Information

Candidate Qualifications

Any Canadian citizen aged 18 or older on election day can run for election unless deemed to be ineligible under section 65 of the Canada Elections Act (CEA), which states that the following persons are not eligible to be a candidate:

- a person who is not qualified as an elector on the date on which his or her Nomination Paper is filed;
- a person who is disentitled under paragraph 502(3)(a) while they are so disentitled;
- a member of the legislative assembly of a province;
- the Chief Electoral Officer;
- a judge appointed by the Governor in Council, other than a citizenship judge appointed under the Citizenship Act;
- a person who is imprisoned in a correctional institution;
- an election officer; and
- a person who was a candidate in a previous election and for whom a return, report, document or declaration has not been provided under subsection 477.59(1), if the time and any extension for providing it have expired.

You may seek election in only one electoral district at a time; however, you are not required to be a resident of that electoral district.

The relevant procedures and candidate responsibilities are set out in Part 6 of the CEA.

Signing the Candidate Declaration

To complete the nomination package, the candidate must make a solemn declaration before an authorized person as per s. 66(1)(a) and 549(1) of the CEA.

Under the CEA, the following persons have been authorized to receive such a declaration:

- election officers (including, a returning officer, assistant returning officer, or additional assistant returning officer);
- judges;
- unit election officers (an elector appointed by a commanding officer to administer an election on a military base);
- notary publics;
- provincial court judges;
- justices of the peace; or
- commissioners for taking oaths in the province.

Please note: All solemn declarations and affidavits received under the CEA are to be received free of charge, as per s. 549(2) of the CEA. The declaration does not need to be made in the electoral district in which you intend to run.

Candidate Identification and Use of an Alternative Name

When filing your Nomination Paper, you must provide proof of your identity to the returning officer. You can submit identification documents directly, or copies may be provided by the person filing the Nomination Paper, as long as the copies are signed by you.

If you want to appear on the ballot under an alternative name, you must supply documentation to the returning officer proving that you are commonly known by that name. This will be required when you want to use a different given name (even if it is a normal abbreviation of the name) or a different last name (e.g. your married name if it is not your legal last name).

For additional information, including the lists of authorized identification documents and documents to support that you are commonly known by a different name, please consult the Candidate List of Authorized ID (EC 20014) available on the How to become a candidate page on the Elections Canada website.

Political Party Endorsement

If you are running as an endorsed candidate of a political party, your party must submit a document indicating that they have endorsed you. The Chief Electoral Officer must receive this document no later than 24 hours before the close of the nomination period. The returning officer cannot confirm your nomination until the party has confirmed their endorsement of you. We suggest you contact your political party prior to submitting your Nomination Paper to confirm that this information has been submitted to the Chief Electoral Officer.

Collecting Signatures of Electors Consenting to Candidacy

You must supply the names, addresses and signatures of at least 100 qualified electors (Canadian citizens at least 18 years old on election day) who ordinarily reside in the electoral district where you intend to run as a candidate. Elections Canada recommends that you collect 150 or more signatures to ensure that you meet this requirement.

In the larger or remote electoral districts listed in Schedule 3 of the CEA, the required minimum number of signatures is 50.

Note: To reduce the handling of documents between individuals, a version of Section F – Electors Consenting to Candidacy containing space for only 1 signature is now available on elections.ca.

Submitting the Nomination Paper

The completed Nomination Paper and all associated supporting documents must be submitted to the returning officer. Either you or your campaign delegate may submit nominations.

In accordance with the CEA, the Nomination Paper must be filed between the day the returning officer publishes the Notice of Election and the close of nominations, which is 21 days before election day at 2:00 p.m. local time.

The returning office contact information will be available on the Elections Canada website once the writ of election is issued. We suggest making an appointment with the returning officer early during the nomination period, so there is sufficient time if required to correct the Nomination Paper before the close of nominations.

Online Nomination Form

As an alternative to submitting a hard copy of the Nomination Paper, you have the option of completing and submitting an online nomination form through the Political Entities Service Centre (PESC) to fulfil the federal nomination requirements. For more information on how to complete an online nomination form in PESC, please visit <https://csep-pesc.elections.ca/>.

Offence

It is an offence under section 89 and paragraph 486(3)(a) of the CEA to consent to be a candidate when you are not eligible. It is also an offence under paragraph 499(2)(a) and subsection 549(3) of the CEA to falsely take an oath that is provided for by the CEA.

Public Inspection

Any person may examine the completed Nomination Paper of a confirmed candidate at the office of the returning officer during the election period. After the election period, the Nomination Paper is submitted to the Chief Electoral Officer and becomes a protected election document. The Nomination Paper may be shared with the Commissioner of Canada Elections to ensure that the CEA is complied with and enforced. It may also be shared within Elections Canada to administer federal election voting procedures and the political financing provisions of the CEA.
